

Letter of Recommendation: Ishnidh Singh Viridi

Dear Sir/Madam,

I have coached Ishnidh Singh Viridi for nine years, starting when he was seven years old, and it has been a joy to watch him grow from a curious young boy who always appeared to naturally belong on the golf course into one of India's finest and most promising junior golfers.

With his father, a keen sportsman himself, we started to build a grounding in golf fundamentals from the very beginning. He stood out, not just for his natural athletic ability, but for the way he conducted himself and his eagerness to learn the golf swing the proper way. In nine years, I have never once had to repeat a coaching point or remind him of a drill. He listens, processes and applies. That quality is rare in any golfer, let alone a child, and it made coaching him a pleasure.

Ishnidh's course and situational awareness have always been beyond his years, and he had a number of wins in regional and zonal tournaments early on. As he stepped up to the national stage, one of the areas we focused on was channelling this awareness into staying fully in the present moment. Not getting ahead of himself when things were going well, and not dwelling when they weren't. That, combined with his growing technical ability made a real difference. The results speak for themselves, with Ishnidh consistently shooting low scores, breaking 70 and getting on the podium in national and international tournaments.

Technically, he has developed a deep understanding of the pivotal movements in the golf swing. His transition sequencing and lag retention are truly remarkable, resulting in ball-striking that is clean and precise, with the ability to adapt to different turf conditions and adjust accordingly. It is really helpful that Ishnidh comes prepared with all his stats and data, and once we agree on an approach, he goes all out to implement it. His desire to improve is relentless, and I count myself lucky to have trained him.

I often describe Ishnidh as a diamond, and we have spent years shaping the foundational aspects of his golf game. Together with Paul Foston, Ishnidh now has a coaching environment that adds to his well-rounded development as a golfer. A US collegiate program will provide the perfect setting, with international competition, world-class facilities and the structured coaching environment for him to realise his aspirations and the potential we see in him. You will find in him a golfer who is ready, works harder than anyone in the room and will be a real asset to the team.

Yours sincerely,

Bamby Randhawa
